

This image displays a collection of 40 Japanese playing cards, known as Hanafuda, arranged in four rows. The cards are made of light-colored paper or cardstock and feature various designs in red, black, and gold. The designs include:

- Flowers: Cherry blossoms (sakaki), peonies (botan), chrysanthemums (kiku), and plum blossoms (ume).
- Birds: Cranes (tsurumaru), deer (shika), phoenixes (houou), and other birds.
- Landscapes: Mountains (fukinuki yatai), sun (natsuhi), moon (tsuki), and clouds.
- Other motifs: A crane (tsurumaru), a deer (shika), a phoenix (houou), and a crane (tsurumaru).

The cards are arranged in four rows, with the first row containing 10 cards, the second row containing 10 cards, the third row containing 10 cards, and the fourth row containing 10 cards. The designs are repeated across the rows, with some variations in the arrangement of the cards.
